Welcome

For nearly 20 years, The Alliance of States with Prescription Monitoring Programs has provided a forum for information sharing on prescription monitoring programs (PMPs) among state and federal agencies seeking to curtail drug diversion and abuse while ensuring patient care. \(More about the Alliance.\)

New to Prescription Monitoring?

Prescription Monitoring Programs (PMPs) are highly effective tools for reducing prescription drug abuse and diversion. PMPs monitor electronically transmitted prescribing and dispensing data submitted by pharmacies and other dispensers. The data are used to support states' efforts in education, research, enforcement and abuse prevention.

States recognize the medical need for controlled substances and, therefore, PMPs do not interfere with appropriate, medical use. Prescription data access is granted ONLY to entities authorized by state law, such as health care practitioners, pharmacists, regulatory boards and law enforcement agencies.
